

An I Can Read Book®

Who Will Be My Friends?

Syd Hoff

I Can Read Books are widely recognized as the premier line of beginning readers. Inaugurated with Else Holmelund Minarik's Little Bear, illustrated by Maurice Sendak, the series has grown to over 200 titles that include mysteries, adventure stories, poetry, historical fiction, and humor. Featuring the finest authors and illustrators, I Can Read Books introduce children to the joy of reading independently.

To help you choose a book that's right for your child, I Can Read Books have five levels that correspond to a child's reading development. These levels are meant only as guides; the greatest reading pleasure grows out of a child's own interests and abilities.

MY FIRST I CAN READ BOOKS:

simple concepts and stories, told in familiar, easy-to-recognize words for the emergent reader

I CAN READ BOOKS:

LEVEL 1 — short, simple stories for the early reader

LEVEL 2 — high-interest stories with longer plots and language play for the developing reader

LEVEL 3 — short chapters and more complicated plots for the newly independent reader

I CAN READ CHAPTER BOOKS:

more challenging chapters for the fully independent reader

Freddy moved into a new house.

He liked his room.

He liked the street.

"Who will be my friends?" he asked.

He rolled his ball to a little dog.

He rolled his ball to a cat.

They did not roll it back.

"Who will be my friends?" he asked.

"I am your friend,"
said the policeman.

"I am your friend,"
said the mailman.

"I am your friend,"
said the street cleaner.

"Let's play ball," said Freddy.

"I have to walk my beat,"
said the policeman.

"I have to bring the mail,"
said the mailman.

"I have to clean the street,"
said the street cleaner.

“Who will be my friends?”
asked Freddy.

He went to the playground.

Boys were playing ball.

“Who will be my friends?”

asked Freddy.

The boys went right on playing.

"I guess I will have to play by myself," said Freddy.

He threw his ball up in the air—

—and caught it.

He threw his ball up in the air—

—and caught it!

He threw it still higher—

—and caught it!

"Who will be my friends?"
asked Freddy.

"We will," said the boys.

"We need someone who can throw and catch like that."

“Let’s shake on it,” said Freddy.

And they did.
